Pneumatic hoisting hooks

Using pneumatic lifting hooks can lead to a drastic reduction in personnel. Previously there were two teams needed for loading and unloading with lifting hooks. Using pneumatic hooks only one team is needed. The pneumatic lifting hooks open automatically at the desired time and removes the need for manually unhooking the load. Unhooking can be done one by one or simultaneously using a remote control. Hoisting slings will no longer hang and there is less chance of accidents.

Custom hoisting frames

The application of combined techniques and progress by developing new technologies and applications makes it virtually impossible to apply standard products. The traditional rope with a hook is increasingly being replaced by advanced lift systems specially designed for the specific application. Therefore Breeman designs custom-tailored hoisting frames to meet special requirements. The customer can choose from magnetic frames, clamping frames, pneumatic frames, but also the pallet frame or granite frame.

Vacuum hoisting frames

The application of vacuum hoisting frames in transshipment has several possibilities. Products like paper rolls and steel pipes can be lifted using vacuum. An advantage of hoisting with vacuum is saving time through quick engagement and release of goods. This leads to improved productivity and reduced costs.

Conventional hoisting frames

A conventional hoisting frame is a device which is used worldwide and can be used in various ways. These hoisting frames are very reliable and have a low maintenance budget. The hoisting frames can be fitted with different hooks and are delivered with a Safe Working Load of choice.

Control

Each hoisting frame can be equipped with a wireless remote control. Which this control the hydraulic or pneumatic control can be activated.

If necessary, Breeman can equip each frame with it's own power supply
